Four Corners Development Group Announces
Wham-O Frisbee® Golf for BREW® Handsets

SAN DIEGO — May 30, 2006 — Four Corners Development Group, a leading developer of mobile content, today announced the release of Wham-O Frisbee Golf, a game developed for QUALCOMM's BREW solution. Frisbee Golf allows the user to compete in a realistic frisbee golf course, throwing like a pro and navigating the unique terrain. Players can curve the frisbee around trees, over water and past sand traps to land the disc in the basket. A night game feature allows the player to throw a glow-in-the-dark frisbee, bringing a new dimension to the game. Four Corners Development Group will be showcasing its products at booth #64 at the BREW 2006 Conference, being held May 31 – June 2 in San Diego.

“We are extremely excited to be working with Wham-O to bring their industry leading products to the mobile environment. With more than 50 years of heritage behind them and more than 70 products that appeal to people of all ages, the Wham-O brand is synonymous with fun, play and sport,” said Jeff Miller, CEO and chief architect for Four Corners Development Group. “The BREW solution is the best tool to bring the Wham-O brand of fun to the mobile community, as it allows us to reach millions of customers around the globe, and greatly simplifies both porting and commercialization of mobile applications.”

“Wham-O Frisbee Golf is a wonderful game to bring to the mobile device, as it blends the old-fashioned fun of the frisbee with the powerful gaming capabilities now available on wireless devices,” said Mike Yuen, senior director of the Gaming Group for QUALCOMM Internet Services. “We expect that this game will be popular with a wide variety of consumers, from regular wireless gamers to more casual users”
